

IEEE COMMUNICATIONS SOCIETY

IEEE is the world's largest professional association providing access to the industry's most essential technical information, networking opportunities, career development tools and many other exclusive benefits to its members. The IEEE Communications Society founded in 1952 is the world's leading membership organization for communications professionals.

Aarupadai Institute of Technology, Vinayaka Missions University was the first institution to have a student branch chapter of the IEEE Communications Society. The branch was inaugurated on 13th April, 2007 at the college campus in Paiyanoor.

The society chapter provides the students with a platform for exhibiting and honing their talents. The chapter organizes technical lectures in the current trends in Communication Engineering for the benefit of the students.
